

ABSTRACT

In a method of fluoroscopic X-ray imaging employing an X-ray irradiation unit, image processor and an imaging chain including a display monitor, the key parameters of a displayed greyscale image are highlighted by the addition of colouring according to a predetermined colour coding pattern.